Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 01 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells, the odd shower, and feeling warm on Thursday.

Today:
Some lingering cloud over high ground and western coasts slowly burn back, otherwise a mostly sunny start. Sunny spells continue to develop across Wales during the day, however, there remains a risk of a few showers developing during the afternoon. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
A fine evening for most as showers fade away. Lingering coastal cloud progresses inland to leave a cloudy night in the north and west. A few clear spells elsewhere. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
Starting murky for some. Soon turning bright and sunny for all, but with scattered showers developing from the late morning, some heavy. Feeling cooler along coasts. Rain moving in overnight. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Feeling muggy with a mix of sunny spells and widespread showers throughout this period, heaviest on Sunday. Risk thunder over the weekend too. Some low cloud, especially Sunday night.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.